DRONE Lunch-n-Learn

September 29 11a-1p

In the past three years, aerial drones have added a new dimension to real estate photography. Cameras mounted to a drone can be flown high above a property to capture the unique exterior character, landscaping, or breathtaking views. For properties with unique exteriors, drones are a great way to present features that are key to generating leads and boosting offers.

The instructor, Travis McKinney, is a Small Unmanned Aircraft Systems Operator for the Marine Corps and owner of High Angle Images. He is certified with the FAA and insured for a half-million dollars. He will be covering the use of drones in real estate, FAA regulations and what you should look for when hiring a drone operator. Travis has so much experience and knowledge to share- this is a session you won't want to miss!
