How are these construction types defined?

How is a home's value impacted by the construction type?

Why do some transactions require a mobile home dealer's license?

How is lending impacted by the construction type?

We have a very dynamic group of industry experts that are prepared to answer these questions (and any and all that you might have) from all transactional angles - the ins and outs of the construction process, differentiation between construction types, listing, selling, appraising, inspecting, title work, and financing.
